THE STANLY NEWS & PRESS. Albemarle, N.C., Sunday, June 25, 1995

Several thousand B-24 bombers operated over Europe in 1944 ...this one was named Yo-Yo as its crew hoped it would always come back

Former B-24 gunner recalls Missions high above a Nazi-occupied Europe

By JO ANNE B. EFIRD SNAP Staff Writer June 25, 1995

L.B. Teeter remembers well the day he first came face-to-face with his own mortality.

It was July 27, 1944.

On that day, 30 B-24s from the 155th Bomber Group left a base near Cherignola, Italy, their target Budapest, Hungary.

Teeter was turret gunner on Yo Yo, one of the craft in the high squadron. It was his first mission. Enroute to target four of the 10 bombers in the squadron turned back with mechanical problems. As they did, the pilot of Yo-Yo maneuvered the plane into the number four position, leaving it with a craft on eitherwing and two wing of leaders in front of them

As they approached target, the tail gunner announced there was a

"dog fight" behind, the plane. Teeter turned his turret to the back of, the craft and noticed the B-24 on their left wing was sliding out of the sky with flames going back by the tail. It had been shot down by German ME 109 and FW 190 fighters.

A 190 came into his view with its belly toward him. He fired. His tracers actually bounced off the armor plating.

"I looked to my left and saw an ME 109 that appeared to be flying formation with us. Actually he was getting into position to fire on us. I put the turret in high speed, got two 50-caliber machine guns into position and started firing. The first tracer went left of the propeller, the next one into the engine compartment. The third one went into the body of the aircraft and the 109 went out of view."

They dropped their bombs on their target and went "home." The crew got credit for two fighters down and three probables on that mission. Only two aircraft of the six that remained after four turned back came home. The group lost 10 bombers in all that day.

For that first mission he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. He was also made very much aware of how close to death he had come. It scared him. He told himself, "There's no way I will ever see the U.S. again. I have to fly 34 more missions like that."

Before he could go back to the states, he must fly 50 sorties, with 35 of them "over the target." Some especially dangerous sorties counted as two.

Throughout those missions he had evidence more than once that he did not always come home due to his own actions. On another mission, in September, the target was Munich, Germany, headquarters of the German Luftwaffe. They were to take out an airfield. The flight plan was to go up around one side, came down and bomb the target on the other. As they were making the circle, their navigator told the pilot the lead navigator was off course and was completely off his map. "We were out of sync," Teeter said, .and on a collision course with another group of planes."

The group leader did a 360degree turn with 28 B-24s to come in to hit it again.

That time they came on a collision course with still another group of planes.

They few in circles that way an hour and a half trying to get to the target. Finally, Teeter, who was engine gunner on this mission, told the pilot, "If we don't turn back now, we won't have enough fuel to get back."

As they started back over the Alps to Italy, he transferred fuel from the wing tanks to the engines.

On their final approach to the base, one engine quit - no fuel. As they set down on the runway, the second engine went out - same problem. As they pulled into their assigned parking place the third of the plane's four engines went out.

Turning off the one engine left running, the pilot asked Teeter if he had actually figured that closely. He hadn't.

"It was God's grace, His protection, that kept me," he says. Theirs was the first plane back from the mission.

The others had stopped in northern Italy for fuel.

From July to September that year he flew 35 sorties. By December he had his 50 sorties, including his 35 "over the target." His last mission was Dec. 6, 1944. He came back home Dec. 30, 1944 as a tech sergeant.

The B-24 was a four-engine heavy bombardment bomber. They named theirs Yo-Yo because they 'hoped i t would always come back. It lived up to its name.

"You hear a lot about B-25s," Teeter says, "but you don't hear as much about B-24s. I want people to know about the B-24s:"

Teeter says the plane, made by Boeing, carried a normal bomb load of 10,500-pound bombs or six 1,000-pound bombs. He estimates there were from 3,000 to 5,000 of them in Europe during war. At one time, there were, 1,000 based in England and 1,000 based in Italy

Teeter enlisted in the- US Army Air Corps in February 1943. He was 19 years old.

He left the states-June- 30, 1944 and came back Dec.30, six months to the day. In that time he flew over Romania, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Hungary, all held by the Germans and the southern part of Germany itself.

For his service in the skies over Europe he was Awarded thr Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, which is the same as four Air Medals. He was also awarded the European Theater of Operations Medal with four Battle Stars, and the Good Conduct Medal, as well as the aforementioned Distinguished Flying Cross.

The Germans surrendered in May 1945, the Japanese in August.

Today, as director of the Singing Americans, Teeter will lead a salute to all who served as he did in World War II.

The concert is at 3 p.m. at the Agri-Civic Center. Afterward there will be a reception for the World War II veterans and their families, sponsored by the Albemarle Downtown Development Corporation. The county and four towns have declared this day World War II Anniversary Celebration Day.

To some it was history, a long time ago. To some who lived it, it seems like yesterday.

"It's still so real," he says of those days over Europe. It was 51 years ago, but it's still real.
